

Liquidate Everything!

(and other good business ideas)

Game Play Rules

Starting the game:

- Each player starts by drawing 10 of the WHITE cards. Or make it 5 cards if you want. Or 7. It doesn't matter - just choose any number of cards between 5-10 and have everyone draw that amount.
- Decide on a rule to decide who goes first. Maybe whoever had their birthday last? Maybe...whoever was the last person to eat a banana. That person then draws one of the blue (or whatever color comes out if you print it black and white) cards and reads it out loud.
- Each of the players then chooses one of their white cards that they think is the funniest (or worst, if you prefer) response to the situation presented in the blue card.
- After the winner is chosen, the winner becomes the next person to draw a blue card and decide whose response to it is the best for the next round. To start the next round, everyone draws one white card, and then the winner draws a blue card.

What's the goal of the game?

- To get the most points, of course.

Anything else to know?

- Not really. That's basically it. Add some more rules if you want.